Fulltime Staff Pushes Work Of Developing Map Of Every Adams Property

The day will come, probably within the next several years, when Adams County will have an accurate map of every property in the county.

Work on the project began in earnest this year when the former Adams County Historical Society room and vault in the basement of the courthouse were turned into quarters for a mapping department and a full time staff was secured to translate details from deeds, investigation and modern aerial photography into individual maps of each property, showing buildings and boundaries and township and borough maps showing the location of each property.

To help define the exact location of boundaries, aerial photographs were taken of the county last spring and this fall. Those times were chosen to permit the pictures to be taken when there were no leaves on the trees. With the leaves out of the way the fences stand out bright and bold. When the trees are in leaf, the county is found to be mostly trees—a view of little value to the mapping department.

IN 3 DIMENSIONS

Each individual aerial picture of a given area of the county overlaps another picture of the same general section by 60 per cent. Thus when two adjoining pictures are placed under a stereoscope three dimensional depth is given to the pictures. By use of the stereoptical device the mappers can determine the contour of the land and the size of the buildings. A reporter, looking through the stereoscope, was amazed at the three-dimensional effect achieved.

The map making is required by law, and so the work will continue after the new board of commissioners takes over in January. The new commissioners may if they wish continue the present mapping program, or contract with a private firm to continue the work.

TWO TOWNSHIPS FINISHED

So far maps have been completed of properties in Reading and Hamilton townships. Much of this year's work was devoted to setting up the system by which the work could begin, getting aerial photographs of the county, constructing tables and benches and obtaining basic maps and equipment, installing them and getting the workers trained to do the job.

Heading the work is Paul C. Harvey, Biglerville, who was selected last January by the commissioners at a salary of $5,000 a year to set up the program and get the work done.

At the time the commissioners admitted that they had begun the work because of pressure brought by the state to force the county to comply with the state law that mapping the various properties must be done.

SAVING $40,000

The commissioners also were grateful that Harvey was available to begin the work. Semi-retired after 30 years as a map maker with the Tennessee Valley Authority, the Keystone Mapping Co., Pennsylvania Aerial Surveys and Aero Service Corporation, he had the qualifications for the work.

Bids previously received by the commissioners from outside concerns to do the work had seemed to be prohibitively expensive. The present commissioners believe the county will save $40,000 by doing its own mapping.

With new aerial maps needed, the commissioners awarded the American Air Survey, Inc., of Pittsburgh, the contract to film to county at a cost of $3,795, the lowest bid received.

MAP IN STRIPS

The photographs are all to the same scale. To make them the photoplane flies down a given line across the county, taking pictures every so many seconds at a standard height above the ground. As a result the photographs can be put into long "strips." When all films are completed, if they were put together, the pictures could make up one big picture of the county—just as if it had been made from one negative.

First step in the project of mapping every property in the county began with the selection of the base map. The U. S. geological survey maps were selected for that purpose, printed on chronoflex, a durable material that will never wrinkle or shrink. A glass topped table, with lights under the glass, permits the semitransparent.

EQUIPMENT OF COUNTY'S FIRE UNITS Praised

Adams County's fire equipment could throw 26,630 gallons of water on a fire without drawing a drop from any hydrant, pond or stream, Council Civil Defense Director William G. Weaver reported today, adding that "this amount of water would take care of almost anything but a major fire."

Weaver said the report is based on a survey he made of the fire equipment available in the county as part of his duties as Civil Defense director.

"It is gratifying to know there is so much excellent equipment on hand in the county to meet fire or any other emergency," Weaver said. He added: "County Fire Marshal John W. Murren must feel equally gratified."

24 COMPANIES REPORT

No reply having been received from the Hampton Fire Co. so far, the current figures listed by Weaver are based on reports sent in by the other 24 companies.

"The compilation of these reports disclose that there are 12 pumpers in the county of 750 gallon per minute capacity; two of 600; 20 of 500; three of 400; four of 350; one each of 300 and 250. These trucks have booster tanks carrying a total of 18,480 gallons of water.

"This means," Weaver pointed out, "that it would be possible, if the water supply was adequate, to pump 23,350 gallons per minute on a fire plus the 18,480 gallons of water in the booster tanks. If more water were needed the 10 fire companies having tankers, could haul 8,150 more gallons. These are separate pieces of apparatus."

10 AMBULANCES

"The fire departments carry with them 26 portable pumps for use when a pumper cannot get close to a supply of water. These pumps average around 300 GPM capacity. In addition there are 14 portable light plants ready for night fires or rescue work."

"Among the other apparatus in our fire departments, Weaver added, "are a 75-foot aerial ladder; three fully equipped rescue trucks; four service trucks and one chief's car."

"In addition to having this excellent fire fighting potential, nine of the companies operate 10 ambulances for the sick and injured."

Trooper Karr and Officer Thomas Carbaugh of Conewago Twp. read statements of Eltz and others admitting the cars were racing and placing the speed of the Eltz car at 55 or 60 miles an hour when Rebert tried to pass on the approach to a curve that proved his undoing.

On the stand at the inquest, none of the young people would admit there was a race in progress and none would say either car was going above the 50-mile speed limit.

Rebert Not On Stand

Rebert did not take the stand. His attorney, S. M. Raffensperger, said Rebert would exercise his right to refuse to testify "inasmuch as he has made a statement to the police." The statement was not given at the inquest.

The first witness was Robert C. Ziegler, Gettysburg photographer, who displayed pictures of the accident scene and of the demolished Rebert car. It smashed into two trees and came to rest more than 300 feet from where it left the highway.

Philip Eltz said he and four others, two fellows and two girls, were "going for a ride" after playing basketball briefly at DeLone High. They went to "The Bucket" in McSherrystown to play pool but found it closed for the holiday.

Eltz said that on the Mt. Pleasant Rd. Rebert stopped his car and, when Eltz came along side, someone in the Rebert car invited Eltz to a drag race which Eltz said he declined. Eltz drove off first but, when Rebert overtook and passed him "at about 45 miles an hour," the Rebert car went off the curve and hit the trees. Philip Eltz said he is a shoe factory worker and has been driving a car only since last July.

CONFER ON CHARGES

Trooper Edwin Karr of the Gettysburg station of the state police was conferring today with District Atty. Daniel E. Teeter as to whether charges shall be filed against the two drivers involved, Philip Eltz, Hanover, 18-year-old brother of one of the victims, and Richard M. Rebert, 19, also of Hanover.

The two occupants of the Rebert car who were killed almost instantly by fractured skulls and internal injuries were Calvin J. Eltz, 17, Hanover, and Gary Lee Forry, 21, also of Hanover.

Sharply conflicting testimony was given by some of the principal witnesses, who were occupants of the cars involved, and the investigating officers. Philip Eltz, driver of one car, and several passengers in his car denied statements given to the police the evening of the accident and gave new accounts of the events leading up to the tragedy in their testimony Friday.

DENY SPEEDING, RACING

Trooper Karr and Officer Thomas Carbaugh of Conewago Twp. read statements of Eltz and others admitting the cars were racing and placing the speed of the Eltz car at 55 or 60 miles an hour when Rebert tried to pass on the approach to a curve that proved his undoing.

On the stand at the inquest, none of the young people would admit there was a race in progress and none would say either car was going above the 50-mile speed limit.

Eltz told the jury he had been "threatened" by Trooper Karr. Eltz said Karr threatened to push him down a bank unless he told the truth. Eltz said he didn't know what he was saying to the police at a later questioning at the McSherrystown police station where statements were taken from the persons not taken to the hospital after the crash. Four in the Rebert car were hospitalized and one remains a patient.

SENATE READY TO SEND MAJOR BILLS TO LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has cleaned up all of the major legislation it is expected to send to President Johnson this year except possibly for a foreign aid appropriations measure.

Climaxing perhaps the most productive congressional week of its long year, the Senate Friday cleared for the White House four major bills:

A $1.56-billion vocational education bill also extending the National Defense Education Act and the impacted areas program of aid to school districts with populations swollen by federal installations.

FOREIGN AID SLICE

A $3.6-billion foreign aid authorization bill sliced $930 million below administration requests.

A $527-million bill extending the 1962 Manpower Training Act and broadening it to include more youth training and to add literacy courses to the program.

A $1.5-billion military construction appropriations bill containing funds for bases all over the nation and in many foreign countries.

Congressional leaders have programmed no major legislation for next week—the final one of the protracted 1963 session—except the foreign aid money bill.

HOLD TOP BILLS

They concede that the two top-priority administration bills of the 88th Congress—civil rights and a tax cut—are going over until January.

But Democrats maintain that the record written this year on federal aid to education is proof the 1963 session has been productive, despite criticism of its record.

In addition to the vocational education bill, they point to the $1.2-billion college construction measure sent to Johnson Tuesday and a $231-million medical education bill signed by the late President John F. Kennedy in September.

Christmas Trees Under Sales Tax

HARRISBURG (AP) — The State Revenue Department reminds citizens that such items as Christmas trees, cards and decorations are not exempt from the 5 per cent sales tax.

It makes no difference if the selling is by a Boy Scout, church, charity or other nonprofit agency, the department said in a statement Friday. The statement added that "any group planning to sell such items should obtain a temporary license from the (sales tax) bureau and collect the tax on the items sold."

The license and monies collected should be returned to the bureau, the Revenue Department said.

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington Rights violated An appeals court has thrown out the court-martial conviction of Air Force Capt. Joseph P. Kaufmann on espionage charges, and denounced the Air Force for "reprehensible and indefensible" actions in its investigation.

"We (the court) cannot call to our command words in which we can adequately condemn the illegal procedures revealed in this record," declared military appeals judge Paul Kilday, a former Texas congressman.

The court, however, upheld Kaufmann's conviction on a secondary charge of failing to notify his superiors of attempts by East German agents to induce him to reveal U.S. defense information. The charge carries a maximum sentence of dishonorable discharge and two years of hard labor.

The Air Force alleged that the 45-year-old veteran of World War II and Korea had conspired with East German intelligence agents while visiting Berlin in 1960, between a transfer from Greenland to Castle Air Force Base, Calif.

The Rutland, Vt., native was tried in Wiesbaden, Germany, in April 1962. He has been confined since at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., on a 10-year sentence.

Among what the court described as "massive and deliberate violations of Kaufmann's rights were signals during the court martial to control the flow of testimony and surreptitious recordings of his talks with his lawyer.

Kilday fired the case back to the Air Force judge advocate general Friday for a rehearing or a reassessment of Kaufmann's sentence.

High Speed

Robert car had been declined. He said no one had been drinking. Asked about the statement he gave police November 28 about drag racing and speeds of 55 and 60 miles an hour, he either "didn't know" or did not remember.

NEW ACCOUNTS DISAGREE

Paul Highlands, Third St., Hanover, admitted telling the officers Philip Eltz had agreed to a race but said he had made the statement only to bring an end to police questioning. Friday he said there was no race involved.

Rebecca Noel, McSherrystown, an occupant of the Eltz car, said she was listening to the radio and heard no mention of drag racing. She was in tears before she left the stand.

Kay Meckley, 16, also in the Eltz car, denied hearing any mention of racing and denied a statement on the stand by Mike Eltz that she had urged her boy friend, Philip Eltz, to turn down the race challenge from the Robert car.

WOMAN SAW CRASH

Robert Lemon, in the Eltz car, suffered a concussion and had no recollections of the crash or events immediately before it, he testified. Donald Mummert, 16, with his right arm in a cast from the crash, also remembered nothing. Both had been hospitalized and had been in the death car.

Mrs. Catherine R. Spangler, who lives near the crash scene, said she heard the cars pass her house at a high speed and saw the crash after the Robert car made the pass. She blamed high speed for the crash, estimated the speeds at "over 50 miles an hour" and said there is frequent racing on that stretch of road.

Trooper Karr blamed high speed for the crash and read the statements he took the day of the accident. He denied any threats and this was corroborated later by Officer Carbaugh. He said Philip and Mike Eltz and Paul Highlands and Mummert had changed their story from the time of the accident until the inquest.

"RUN ONE OFF?"

Officer Carbaugh said the youths had made their statements willingly the day of the accident. He quoted Phil Eltz as saying he was asked by persons in the Robert car: "Do you want to run one off?" Eltz accepted, the officer reported, according to the original statement.

FOUR ATTORNEYS THERE

Members of the jury who heard the case were John O'Brien, Harold Ecker, Clair Sanders, Mrs. Edward Crist, Frank Linn and Hugh C. McIlhenny, foreman.

The questioning was handled by Dr. Crist, District Attorney Daniel E. Teeter, District Attorney-elect Gerald Walmer and Attorney Jesse Crabbs of Hanover, who represented Philip Eltz. Attorney Raffensperger attended the inquest to represent Robert but did not question witnesses under a ruling by the coroner.

D. 1, Ohio, was fined $50 and sentenced to three months in jail Friday after pleading guilty in Lancaster County Court to possessing dangerous drugs. Hogue admitted possessing 34 amphetamine sulphate tablets, commonly called pep pills. He said another truck driver had given the pills to him, but he denied using any of them. Hogue was arrested by state police Aug. 27 when his truck and an automobile were involved in a collision on the Pennsylvania Turnpike in Lancaster County.

Three Men

at the early morning dropoff of the ransom money was discounted by a source close to the case, who asked that his name not be used.

The FBI was interested in only one thing from last Sunday night, when young Frank was abducted, until his safe return early Wednesday morning and that was his personal welfare. They took no pictures nor did anything else that would have jeopardized his safety, the source added.

SEQUENCE OF EVENTS

The FBI statement said this was the sequence of events: "Young Sinatra was kidnapped at gunpoint from his room at Harrah's Club motel, Stateline, Nev., by two men shortly after 9 p.m., Dec. 8, 1963.

"At 6:50 the following afternoon, the victim's father received a telephone call at a Reno, Nev., hotel. A male voice told him 'the kid' was all right and he should expect another call the next morning.

"The second call was received at 9:03 a.m., Dec. 10. On this occasion, Mr. Sinatra was permitted to speak briefly with his son. Less than three hours later, a spokesman for the gang called again and instructed Sinatra to go from his Reno hotel room to a service station in Carson City, Nev.

TOLD OF RANSOM

"Arriving there he was summoned to the telephone and given instructions by the now-familiar voice to assemble $240,000 in bills of $5 through $100 denominations.

"From Carson City the elder Sinatra was instructed to proceed to the home of his former wife, the victim's mother, in Bel-Air, Calif. (a section of Los Angeles). There he received another phone call at 9:26 p.m., Dec. 10.

"In compliance with the kidnappers' instructions, a courier—who was actually an FBI agent—went to a phone booth at Los Angeles International Airport, carrying the $240,000 ransom.

MORE DIRECTIONS

"Other phone calls directed the agent to a service station about eight miles from the airport.

"Shortly before 12:30 a.m., Dec. 11, the agent placed the ransom money between two school buses near the service station and, as instructed by the spokesman for the kidnappers, quickly drove from the scene.

"Frank Sinatra Jr. was released unharmed by his abductors and arrived at the home of his mother in Bel-Air at 3:10 a.m., Dec. 11, 1963.

Agents gave no details on how the three suspects were tracked down.

HAD HIDEOUT HOME

The FBI said the hideout used by the three men was a home at 8143 Mason Ave. in Canoga Park, a section of Los Angeles in the San Fernando Valley.

"This was where young Sinatra was held while negotiations were carried on by his father for payment of the $240,000 ransom," the statement said.

FBI agents raided this home Thursday, after it had been vacated.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover said $47,938 of the ransom money was recovered when Irwin was arrested about 9 a.m. Friday in Imperial Beach, Calif., only a few miles from the Mexican border.

FIND MORE MONEY

Hoover said most of the remainder of the $240,000 was found in Amsler's apartment when he was arrested in nearby Culver City shortly after midnight Friday. The FBI here said the amount recovered from the apartment was $168,927.

That would make a total of $216,865, leaving a balance of $23,135 unaccounted for. Hoover said all three men had records. The records show: Amsler, a professional boxer, had been arrested three times on charges of violating the alcohol beverage control act of trespassing.

Keenan has been arrested on burglary and petty theft charges. Irwin has a record dating to July 1947, and has been charged with assault and battery, desertion, nonsupport and drunk and disorderly conduct.

Hoover said his arrests included violations in New Jersey, Maine, Massachusetts and California.

BIG PROBLEM IS AHEAD FOR ORCHARDISTS

Adams County's fruit producers are rapidly approaching a great problem of marketing a great deal more fresh fruit but some of the means of solving the problem are also close at hand, according to the annual narrative report prepared by County Agent Thomas E. Piper for Pennsylvania State University.

Adams County fruitgrowers in recent years have made heavy plantings of varieties of apples which are sold direct to the "fresh fruit market" rather than to the processor, Piper noted. These heavy plantings are "resulting in mounting pressure on fresh fruit marketing outlets. Sound planning is necessary now if we are to be prepared to market this fruit in an orderly manner and to our best advantage in the years ahead."

Piper said extension's programming over the last several years has been "to create an awareness on the part of industry leadership of the impending marketing dilemma and if possible to motivate sound planning and group action."

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS
Some important developments include the purchase of an Adams County fruit storage and service business by a large regional co-operative and completion of a 325,000-bushel capacity controlled atmosphere fruit storage by a local cooperative, "the county agent said."

At the same time "Adams County fruit and vegetable growers have not developed their potential for marketing direct to consumers through roadside stands and programs of 'pick your own'."

"With some two million tourists visiting the National Military Park at Gettysburg each year, with many highways crossing the county, and with our close proximity to the metropolitan areas . . . potential customers are near at hand."

Fruitgrowers also are "faced with rising costs of production and marketing while yields and returns on a per acre basis generally fail to keep pace."

DISCUSS DWARF TREES
In an effort to meet the cost squeeze, fruitgrowers have shown a "significant increase" in use of fertilizer and use of the complete soil testing service.

Disease and insect control during the last growing year was "excellent," Piper reported, "with one exception, the mite problem developed in late season to a serious proportion. This problem must be stressed next year together with chemical weed control and chemical thinning."

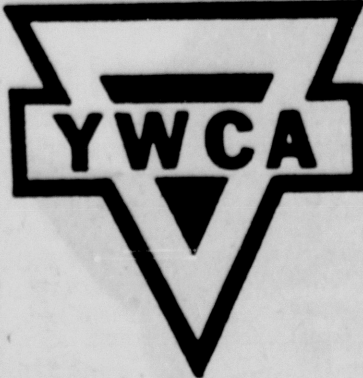

There was much thought this year to use of dwarf and semi-dwarf trees as a method of meeting some of the fruitgrowers' problems, but Piper indicated that there are some drawbacks to juried of our county."

Weaver said that the equipment is "tied together" by the radio communication system that can alert and control all of this equipment, and that it is second to none in the State. First the Quick Call system makes it possible for the operator at the control center to turn on any individual siren, or all at once. Secondly the radio net makes it possible to control every piece after it is called out. The base station is in the control center in Gettysburg while seven other companies have subbase stations.

"Our community has the Federal Civil Defense authorities to thank for half of the cost of most of this system," Weaver pointed out. "Help of course was given also by local borough and township subdivisions in many cases and in other some of the fire departments themselves paid some of the cost."

dwarf trees. "They do not respond to standard management practices. Further evaluation will be required and more growers need to obtain first hand experience with these trees before any widespread planting is anticipated."

THE HOUSE OF A THOUSAND GIFTS

Fulltime

ent chronoflex maps to be placed on top of it. The black lines of the map stand out bright and distinctly as a result.

USE TWO SCALES

Everything, maps, photos, etc., is to the same scale, in general, one inch representing 400 feet.

For boroughs and build up areas the size is one inch to each 100 feet.

The reason is simple. It is easy to put a 200-acre farm on a map to the scale of one inch to 400 feet. But when it gets down to 30 by 50-foot lots, a larger scale map is necessary.

At first, aerial photos made in 1949 were considered for that phase of the work, but it was found that the pictures were taken when the leaves were on the trees and as a result they were little help in determining boundaries. There also had been a lot of changes made in the intervening years.

CHECK WITH OWNERS

Survey of the records on hand showed a lot of lapses in the county's knowledge of properties. While assessment cards were available for all the properties listing general acreage and value, those did not give boundaries for plotting an accurate map of the property. Nor did the recorded deeds help in many cases. For many properties in the county there are no deeds on record.

Some deeds record properties as they were at one time, but fail to note that portions of the property have since been sold off.

Part of the plan, as the work progresses, calls for someone to visit throughout the county and view the land, asking owners when needed concerning the boundaries of properties that cannot be otherwise determined.

When the work is completed there will be a map for each township and borough showing the properties and for each property there will be a separate map.

JOB NEVER FINISHED

The final maps of the townships and boroughs will be printed on chronoflex, and thus will be permanent. The permanent maps will be put away and working copies made from them to go to assessors when their duplicate, or to be used when changes are made until the changes are accurately plotted and can be placed on the permanent maps. Mostly the changes will be simply a change of name, sometimes they will involve the splitting apart or putting together of tracts listed, and so involve more work.

The mapping thus will never be completed, for there will always be changes to be added — but once the entire county is mapped with each property shown, it will be relatively easy to keep up the work by changing the map only as needed.

Harvey notes that the work will proceed as fast as manpower is added. At present he, Wayne Shields and Thomas Hockensmith,

New Oxford, are engaged in the work. Harvey was alone in the office from January to May since during that period no more men, other than carpenters, were needed to set up the mapping room.

Since then the work has been progressing at what seems a rather rapid pace considering the detailed work involved of studying deeds boundary lines as shown by the aerial photographs and basic maps.

D.A. DECLARES LOTS OF MONEY BACKING RUBY

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Henry Wade says that "somebody with lots of money" wants Jack Ruby found innocent of a murder charge.

Wade made the statement Friday when a reporter asked if he knew where Ruby was getting money to hire West Coast lawyers and a nationally known psychiatrist.

Ruby has hired two California lawyers, another in East Texas and a fourth in Dallas. They say they are arranging for "the very best psychiatrist available" to examine the strip tease club owner.

"We haven't determined where Ruby or his relatives are getting their money, but it's obvious that somebody with lots of money wants Ruby found innocent," the district attorney said.

BROTHER ON CASE

Melvin Belli of San Francisco, the chief defense lawyer, said a brother, Earl Ruby of Detroit, arranged for him to represent the defendant. Belli declined to discuss fees which defense lawyers would get or arrangements for paying them.

Belli said also that he had arranged to post a $100,000 bond if Judge Joe B. Brown would allow Ruby to go free on bail while awaiting his Feb. 3 trial.

Ruby has been held without bond since he shot Lee Harvey Oswald after Oswald was accused of murdering President Kennedy and Officer J. D. Tippit on Nov. 22.

Youth Is Killed On Icy Highway

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Pa. (AP) — Vincent Bossio, 19, of Trenton, N.J., was killed Friday in a two-car collision on Route 1 in Middletown Township, Bucks County.

Police said his car skidded on ice and collided broadside with another car, which also skidded.

The other driver, Walter Hoover, 46, of Levittown, Pa., suffered a bruised right shoulder.

Also injured were two passengers in Bossio's car: Michael Tittle, 19, Three Bridges, N. J., who suffered a broken nose and facial cuts, and Miss Betty Krouse, 18, of Caldwell, N.J., who suffered possible back injuries.

In the period of 1935-39, Americans spent 14 per cent of their disposable income for food — as compared with about 19 per cent now.

Walter B. Dillon, Baltimore,

Elected By Hospital Board As
Successor To Walter R. Doud;
Walter B. Dillon, material management officer of the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital, Baltimore, was elected administrator of the Warner Hospital by its board of directors at a special meeting held Friday evening in the Musselman annex building.

Mr. Dillon will assume his new duties on January 1, although he expects to move to Gettysburg with his family shortly before Christmas.

Mr. Doud will assume management of a large hospital in the midwest about mid-January. The new administrator is a native of Newark, N. J., and is 31 years old. He is married and has two young children. He is a graduate of Bradwell Institute, Hinesville, Ga., and has had extensive courses in U. S. Public Health Service hospital administration.

"Gettysburg is a grand community and the hospital is excellent in every respect. It reflects the fine management it has had and I consider it a great honor to be chosen to succeed a man of Mr. Doud's character and ability. I will give the people of Adams County my best efforts," Mr. Dillon stated following his appointment.

Local Couple Will Observe 49th Wedding Anniversary: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bollinger, N. Washington St., Sunday will quietly observe their 49th wedding anniversary.

The couple was married December 6, 1904, at the home of Mr. Bollinger's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Adam Bollinger, near Greentown. The service was performed by the late Rev. William Minnich, then pastor of Mt. Joy Lutheran Church.

Mr. Bollinger, who as a youth had assisted his father in the fruit and farming business at his father's farm near Greentown, was, at the time of his marriage, a cigar maker, one of 20 employed by George Stock in a factory located to the rear of what is now G. C. Murphy Store on Baltimore St. Mr. Bollinger was employed as a cigar maker for seven years, later was employed at the Jennie Wade Museum and as custodian at Christ Lutheran Church. He retired a number of years ago.

Mrs. Bollinger, the former Elizabeth Hoffman, was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Hoffman. She was born on the Codori farm and has resided nearly all of her life in Gettysburg. For some years she has been court matron for the Adams County courts.

College Will Build Dorm For Men Next Year: Dr. Walter C. Langsam, president of Gettysburg College, announced today that the Board of Trustees, at its December meeting in Philadelphia, gave approval to the drawing up of final plans for the construction of a new men's dormitory on the campus. Tentative plans call for work to begin next July 1. The dorm will be in three units, each housing approximately 140 students, and will be located at the corner of West Lincoln Ave. and the road leading past the Eddie Plank Gymnasium.

The Board of Trustees adopted Orange and Blue as the official college colors, and adopted as the official alma mater that written by Gilbert Reinartz.

Heaviest Rain Since July Here On Sunday: Sunday's showers, winding up with a wind and rainstorm late in the evening, brought a total of 1.84 inches of rain to Gettysburg, making it the heaviest rainfall here in any 24-hour period since mid-July.

Today's Talk

A DAY AT A TIME

All things, somehow, work out in time. Life is quite like a sawed-up puzzle, with each of us given the privilege of putting each part in place, as best we know. The fitting places of some of these items may never be found. No life is perfect in its design, but if enough pieces can be placed to show an inspiring picture, then we should be content.

Each task, however, is not one for a day, but for the sum of all the days. We must learn to live one day at a time.

It is a waste of unborn energy to worry about a day that has not yet appeared. Today, well performed, will fit in well with every new day. But if any stitches are dropped they are sure to show up in the completed fabric of life itself.

There are times when speed is essential, but the enduring things take time to complete. When I look upon a rare piece of furniture I look upon something that has love buried within it! That is what adds to its priceless quality. Somebody's soul is in it. It was built a day at a time.

In my library is a little book about the Wisdom of the Chinese. The sayings cover a period of several thousands of years. Outside their literature the Chinese were great artisans, artists and inventors. They did things day by day, but they were in no hurry to get things done, for they wanted what they did to last—as much of it as.

A friend of mine once suggested that we live an hour at a time, which isn't such a bad idea, either—but a day at a time is best. Especially when that day has been opened with an optimistic heart—and a plan. Tomorrow has always taken care of itself.

Every day is a link in a life. To make every one of these links strong and useful is to give all one's best thoughts, energy, and faith to that day. Worrying about another day is the surest way to lower the value of the day at hand.

I like that sentence, uttered by one whom I do not know: "Study (work) as if you were to live forever. Live as if you were to die tomorrow."

MARRIAGE WITH RESERVATIONS

"For better or for worse," he said;
"For better or for worse," said she;
This was the marriage promise read,
And this they vowed on bended knee.

And if it be that love is blind,
Marriage restores the gift of sight;
The flaws which once they couldn't find,
The past few months have brought to light.

He sneers, she frowns, love turns to hate,
Their petty quarrels larger grow;
They both bewail their sorry fate
And both unto their lawyers go.

And now in court before a crowd
Their disappointments they rehearse;
For better or for worse, they'd vowed;
They meant for better, not for worse.

Sunday's rains measured more than total rainfall in either October or November, local weather records show.

The rain was welcomed throughout rural Adams County where scores of wells are dry and many others are producing only a short supply of water in the dry spell that began in June after a very wet spring.

But after seven years in prison, Alcorta returned here Thursday, and he's a free man.

FREE ON PAROLE

He was convicted in 1955 of the knife slaying of his wife. He drew the death penalty. But the U.S. Supreme Court said the prosecution made the mistake of not telling the jury that the state's star witness had been intimate with Alcorta's wife. The witness said he saw the woman stabbed 32 times.

In 1958, the 44-year-old Alcorta's conviction was reversed and he drew 30 years in prison after pleading guilty. Thursday he was free on parole, and he has that job . . . and his prayers.

LEGISLATURE FINISHES JOB IN EARLY HOURS

HARRISBURG (AP)—The General Assembly completed action today on $72 million in appropriations for state-aided institutions wrapping up its legislative business for 1963.

Both House and Senate adjourned their special sessions on appropriations and reapportionment in the wee hours of the morning after postmidnight meetings.

Gov. Scranton is expected to sign the bills next week.

Action on the House and Senate reapportionment plans was completed last Monday.

House Democrats set the stage for approval of the money bills by ending a five month holdout. The minority blocked passage during the regular legislative session last summer by withholding the needed votes for a two-thirds majority.

All 38 bills of the administration package received well over the two-thirds majority today, with the votes ranging between 203-0 and 157-38.

COMING BACK JAN. 6

Two of the bills received minor correctional amendments, to which the waiting Senate agreed immediately.

Final action on the money bills came at 1:49 a.m. The session was adjourned 15 minutes later. The legislature will return Jan. 6 for its 1964 session on fiscal matters.

The appropriations are earmarked for state-aided colleges, universities, hospitals and other public and private agencies.

AMENDMENTS FAIL

The lion's share, $25,090,000, goes to Pennsylvania State University. Another $15,148,920 is earmarked for distribution to 191 hospitals. The University of Pittsburgh will receive $6.9 million, the University of Pennsylvania $6.6 million and Temple University $6.5 million.

House Democrats attempted to inject 16 amendments during the afternoon session Friday, but the proposals were beaten down by the Republican majority.

MERCURY DIPS BELOW ZERO IN PLAIN STATES

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Aging, tenacious autumn rammed the nation's midsection with a frigid wallop today, plunging the mercury below zero in at least a dozen states.

The massive assault, which comes nine days before winter begins Dec. 22, was accompanied by snow and rain in some areas.

The coldest temperatures were recorded in North Dakota. In Dickinson, a -18 reading was reported early this morning.

Miles City, Mont., was -16. In Nebraska, Chadron was -13 and Scotts Bluff -8. Aberdeen, S.D., was -10 and Watertown -8.

The mercury fell to -8 in Marquette, Mich., and in Wisconsin -4 was reported in Milwaukee. Denver was -4, Kirksville, Mo., 0, and in Minnesota, Alexandria was -2.

Mason City, Iowa, was -2 and Des Moines 0. Lafayette, Ind., reported -1 and in Illinois, Chicago was -1, and Rockford -2.

The nation's flanks had less severe temperatures and in Florida the weather was mild.

Snow fell in northern New England, northern New York state, the Great Lakes region and the Rocky mountains. Many states were plagued with wind-blown snow, producing poor driving conditions.

Rainfall occurred in the southeast and in Texas, but generally was less than .25 inch. However, .75 inch was recorded in central Louisiana and in central Mississippi.

Dr. King's Speech Not Public Property

NEW YORK (AP)—Although it was heard by millions over radio and television, Dr. Martin Luther King's speech at the Washington civil rights march last August did not become public property, a federal judge says.

Judge Inzer B. Wyatt ruled Friday that the integration leader did not lose copyright privileges to his address. On those grounds, the judge enjoined two phonograph record firms from selling recordings of the speech.

Oklahoma's football team had won 16 Big Eight Conference games in a row when beaten by Nebraska, 29-20, this season.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The civil rights march on Washington last Aug. 28 cost the taxpayers $805,000, Rep. George Huddleston Jr., D-Ala., said.

He had called on Comptroller General Joseph Campbell the day of the march for an account of its cost to the government.

GHS Ekes Out 47-45 Win Over Susquenita; Crucial Games Here Next Week

Unbeaten Gettysburg High received a scare but ran its winning streak to three by nipping Susquenita 47-45 Friday evening at Perdis in a Blue Mountain League game.

The victory kept the Warriors in a three-way tie with East Pennsboro and Shippensburg for first place in the league. Next week Coach Merrill Eckhart's outfit faces a show down with the other unbeaten teams, meeting East Pennsboro here Tuesday and Shippensburg here on Friday.

The Warriors and Blackhaws battled on even terms through most of the game. Gettysburg got off to a good start in the first period 18-12 with Bob Deitz dropping in all of his three goals during the round. Six Warriors scored during the well-balanced attack.

HAWKS GET LEAD

Susquenita came back and through an 11-point effort on the part of Bob Barton took a 29-28 advantage at half time. The Warriors scoring came on a pair of field goals each by Dick Finkboner and Chris Richardson and another by Mike Flynn.

Gettysburg threw up a tight defense, limiting the Hawks to but five points and surged back into the front 39-34 at the end of three periods. Finkboner rammed through a pair of goals and pair of fouls and Richardson a goal and foul to take care of the local scoring.

The Warriors held on in the final frame as Susquenita, sparked by a trio of goals by Bob Fortenbaugh, pulled to within two points with 10 seconds of play remaining. A Blackhawk shot in the final seconds missed and the Warriors had their third victory.

Finkboner and Richardson were the big guns for Gettysburg with 18 and 12 points. Barton of the losers landed 19, nine on fouls.

JAYVEES WIN

The Gettysburg jayvees also remained unbeaten with their third straight triumph 47-26, icing the game with 18 points in the final quarter. Bob Teeter, Charley Raffensperger and Denny Herring hit for 13, 13 and 12 points for the winners.

Gangster Posts $75,000 Bail

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Angelo Bruno, reputed head of the Philadelphia family of the Cosa Nostra crime syndicate, returned home after being released in $75,000 bail in Boston on extortion charges.

The bespectacled Bruno, father of two and a grandfather, was arrested by five FBI agents yesterday as he got off a plane from Italy where he had been since September.

His Italian lawyer announced in Rome Friday night that Bruno would fly back to the United States to face indictment. He could have remained in Italy, the lawyer said.

The Italian attorney said Bruno told him that he Bruno had no ties to the American Cosa Nostra Syndicate, and that he had never met Joseph Valachi, the mobster who in testimony before a Senate Subcommittee, linked Bruno to the Cosa Nostra.

Mount Stuns Catholic For 78-71 Win; Host To Roanoke Monday

Mt. St. Mary's, beginning to look like one of Jim Phelan's traditionally strong teams, stunned Catholic University 78-71 in a Mason-Dixon Conference game Friday evening in Washington, D. C.

It was the third straight win for the Mountaineers to lift their overall record to 4-2. For Catholic, losers by narrow margins to such powerhouses as Providence and Seton Hall, it was the third reverse in six starts.

Catholic set the pace early in the game but midway in the first half Mike Costello sent the Mount to the front 17-16 with a goal. Near the close of the half Catholic spurred to hold a 34-32 advantage at half time.

The Mount opened the second half with seven straight points and led the remainder of the game.

Mike Costello and Mike Lyons treated the fans to a brilliant bit of outside shooting and accounted for 18 and 16 points. Lou Martine accounted for 18 points, most coming on shorter tosses.

Mike Fessler, a Freshman, and Charley Boylan netted 21 and 20 for the Cardinals.

The Mountaineers swished 33 of their 51 shots from the field while Catholic made good on but 27 of 60. The Crusaders held a wide margin on rebounding 37-16.

Mt. St. Mary's will windup its preholiday schedule by meeting Roanoke at Emmitsburg Monday evening at 8 o'clock in a Mason-Dixon game.

SHERMAN AND PARKER STUDY IN CONTRASTS

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Allie Sherman speaks the language of Madison Avenue. His New York Giants "firm up," never jell. They "establish" their game. When a regular is replaced by a sub he is "pre-empted."

Buddy Parker, his Pittsburgh Steeler counterpart, is a tall, taciturn Texan. When he speaks out, he calls a spade a spade. He lays his card on the table.

There is a sharp contrast between Sherman, a 40-year-old Brooklyn "boy" with a trace of Dixie in his smooth TV voice, and Parker, a man who shuns banquets but speaks out bluntly and bitterly on occasions.

Sherman moved into his first head coaching job in 1961 with the Giants and won Coach of the Year honors in his first two seasons while leading the Giants to two straight division titles.

Allie was a quarterback at Brooklyn College and a No. 2 man in the pros at Philadelphia. Parker was halfback at Centenary and has been a coach around the NFL since 1943.

After winning back-to-back championships at Detroit in 1952 and 1953, Parker walked out on the Lions two days before the 1957 season started.

Parker's SPECIALTY
"This is the worst team I've ever seen in camp," he was quoted. "No life, no guts, just a dead team." The aroused Lions won the championship and Parker finished 6-6 at Pittsburgh.

Parker specializes in taking men who failed elsewhere and spurring them to top efforts. Either you go all out for Buddy or you go home. He once had the plane stop at Denver en route home from a game in Los Angeles and fired two players on the spot.

In defeat, Parker hits the bottom. He is completely desolated. In moments of depression he speaks and acts impulsively.

Like Parker, Sherman also is a hard worker with intense dedication to every detail of the game. In his own way, each produces the same result—an inspired team primed for a great effort.

If Sherman is bitter in defeat, he does

Modern Farmer Must Be Able To Produce, Repair, Budget In Order To Be Successful

By THOMAS E. PIPER
Adams County Farm Agent

What must a modern successful farmer be able to do?

Here's the way one farm operator sums up a typical 20th century farmer:

He must be engineer enough to run $30,000 worth of machinery and blacksmith enough to fix it. He must be economist enough to know when to buy and when to sell, and bookkeeper enough to spot the weak points in his operation.

Thomas E. Piper

He's a gambler on the weather and prices. He must be enough of a veterinarian to spot diseases, treat a bloated cow, and castrate a pig.

He doesn't have to be a chemist, but he needs to know what's in his fertilizer formulas. He doesn't have to be an agronomist, but he must know which crop variety is best and when to plant it. He doesn't have to be a diplomat, but diplomacy will help convince his wife that a one-man hay baler will increase farm profits enough to buy her that dishwasher.

He doesn't have to be a psychologist, but a little psychology might help to keep his children interested in farming while the city boys go drag racing.

As a farmer, today he is a good-sized capitalist, but also a day laborer. He must have brains enough to make 40 decisions a day and brawn enough to toss around bales of hay and bags of feed or fertilizer. And with it all he must be able to walk into the bank and ask for a $20,000 loan without batting an eye.

The farmer of the future? He's got to be good — or get out!

CHECK HOME WIRING

Holiday festivities, long winter evenings, and more household appliances add up to increased electricity use in the home. Wiring systems installed only a few years ago may be inadequate today.

Four out of five homes are suffering from electric wiring that is either unsafe, inefficient or inconvenient.

Wiring includes many items, but wire size is first. For lighting outlets, No. 14 wire, about the thickness of a penny, is used. But for convenience outlets, to which appliances like toasters, irons and coffee percolators are plugged, No. 12 wire, about as thick as a nickel, is needed. Individual appliance outlets for clothes dryers, water heaters, space heaters, etc., require wire about the thickness of two dimes, which is No. 10 wire.

MAY BE INADEQUATE

Wiring that is too light may be found in new houses as well as old. A wiring system installed in a new home by the lowest bidding contractor may meet the minimum requirements. But, this may not provide for increased use of electricity.

Efficiency and convenience in home wiring refers to the number of circuits, the number of outlets per circuit, and the placing of outlets. More circuits may mean another fuse box.

Rewiring jobs are for expert electricians. But, homeowners need to realize the inadequacy of wire too light for certain appliances. You may already see the need for more and better placed outlets.

You can learn more about electrical needs in homes by studying the correspondence course, "Electricity" offered by The Pennsylvania State University. Anyone may enroll simply by sending his name and address with $2 to Electricity, Box 5,000, University Park, Pa. The entire course is sent upon enrollment.

CULTIVATED TREES

Each year Christmas trees are getting better than ever before. That's because growers continue to produce better trees in greater abundance, on more plantations just for the Christmas tree market. Here are several tips to make your tree selection more satisfactory: Choose one to suit the location where it will be placed in your home. Pick a "perfect" tree for the picture window or center of room. But, if one side goes against a wall, or two sides will

Today In Washington

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the news from Washington:

Oil and taxes: Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., pressing for reforms in tax laws told the Senate Thursday of an oil operator with an income of $28,716,932 in 1960 who "paid not one single cent in federal income taxes for that year."

He was one of six oil millionaires who Douglas said paid little or no 1960 taxes according to treasury records. Douglas mentioned no names.

"This is an unjust and outrageous situation," he declared. "This is the result of the numerous loopholes and truckholes in our tax laws and particularly those which favor oil and gas."

Taft-Goldwater: Rep. Robert A. Taft, R-Ohio, declared Thursday he would be happy to run for the Senate on a Republican ticket headed by Barry Goldwater.

When Taft announced his candidacy for the Republican senatorial nomination last Friday, he was quoted as saying that a Goldwater-led national GOP ticket "would make it difficult" for his own campaign in Ohio.

"This was inaccurate and not stated by me," the son of the late Mr. Republican said in a statement.

Job bias: President Johnson told a meeting of 64 business executives Thursday that "no one should be exploited because he is a member of a minority group, and no one should be denied employment because he is a member of a minority group."

He said the only consideration should be "merit and ability."

The executives were called to the White House to hear an explanation of a program to eliminate discrimination in hiring.

Mrs. Kennedy: Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy intends to observe a full year of mourning for her late husband and will make no public engagements, her press secretary announced Thursday.

The statement was presumably aimed at scotching reports she may take a hand in next year's presidential campaign.

There had been published reports that Mrs. Kennedy had advised President Johnson she be hidden by a corner location a less perfect one will do.

Check the bottom whorl of branches on the tree. This whorl of branches may not be complete. It's best to make a fresh cut for water intake and any sawed off branches can be used as decorations. The tree may be improved in appearance if the fresh cut is made above the bottom whorl of branches.

Pines hold needles best, firs next and spruces last. The same order goes for longest to shortest needles.

Many tree growers advertise "choose and cut," which gives the whole family a chance to select a tree in a plantation as in days gone by.

Big 4 Ministers Open Talks Today

PARIS (AP) — The Western Big Four foreign ministers began a round of talks today prior to the first NATO conference since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy.

The three-day conference of the 15-member alliance opens Monday, but Secretary of State Dean Rusk planned preliminary consultations today with his French, British and West German counterparts on such problems as Southeast Asia, Berlin and over-all East-West relations.

U.S. informants said troubled relations between the United States and Cambodia probably would be brought up at a meeting between Rusk, Britain's Foreign Secretary Richard A. Butler and France's Foreign Secretary Maurice Couve de Murville.

Prisoner Escapes From Court Room

NEW YORK (AP) — Ronald Fornera disappeared Friday from Manhattan Criminal Court where the 22-year-old prisoner had been taken to appear as a witness in a burglary case.

Police said no one thought to question Fornera when he walked from the courtroom because he had stood in the plaintiff's section.

Thus, there was nothing to arouse anyone's suspicion—except maybe that Fornera was wearing a pajama top over blue pants.

BLAST SHAKES PLANT

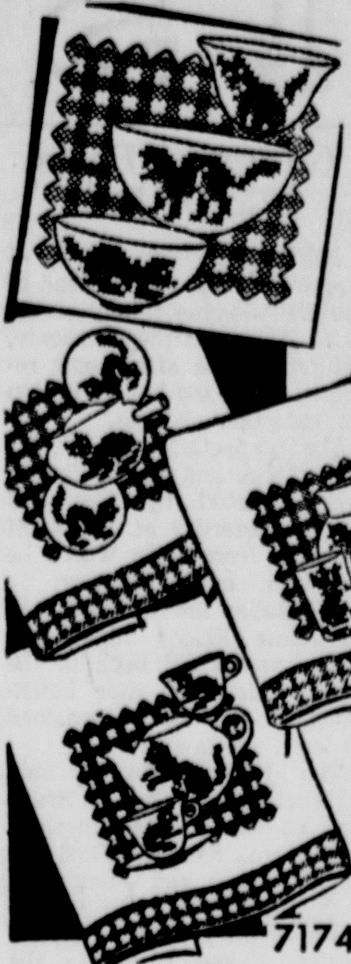

ROCKET CENTER, W. Va. (AP)—Two explosions shook a Navy missile propellant plant here Friday, state police said, and one worker was reported hospitalized in satisfactory condition with neck injuries.

The explosions occurred at the Allegheny ballistics laboratory about 10 miles southwest of Cumberland, Md.

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Gen. Basilio Partine, 84, a member of the general staff of the German army in World War I, died Friday after a heart attack.

NEW YORK (AP) — Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly (ret.) 82, the Army's youngest brigade commander in World War I, died Friday in a Veterans' Hospital.

Gift Transistor Is Working Well

GREAT LAKES, Ill. (AP) — Whether Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore intended their Christmas gift to their sailor son to be a surprise, it won't be.

The duly wrapped transistor radio was playing lustily when it arrived by mail at Great Lakes Naval Training Center. It still was on Friday, and sailor James Moore said he'll not open the package until Christmas. Moore's parents live in Flushing, Queens, N.Y.

Oswald's Widow Looks To Future; $12,000 In Gifts

By JAMES MANGAN
Associated Press Staff Writer
DALLAS (AP) — She is a somewhat bewildered young woman, remorseful over the tragic slaying of President Kennedy, but gallant in her resolve to create a future for her children in America, and bear whatever burden is her lot.

NEW FRONTIER OPPOSITION IS STILL THERE

WASHINGTON (AP)—A handful of Republicans including the House GOP leader, have indicated they don't intend to help Lyndon B. Johnson on the "honeymoon" with Congress traditionally enjoyed by new presidents.

When a president first takes office, Congress is usually receptive to his views and programs and more inclined to pass his legislation.

But one Republican after another has made it clear that the shock of President John F. Kennedy's assassination will not change their opposition to the New Frontier.

LBJ KNOWS SCORE

"They're trying to shove a lot of controversial stuff through on a wave of emotion," one Republican leader snorted to a newsman as he left the House floor this week. "Well, they're just not going to get away with it."

And after a pleasant breakfast with Johnson last Friday, House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana told newsmen:

"He knows the score around here and he wouldn't expect me all at once to change my spots. There will be differences among us, of course."

"DISSENT AND DEBATE"

The House Republican Policy Committee, in an official policy statement, said that while grief has united Americans, it should not produce "unanimity on all of the legislative proposals put forward by our late president."

It added: "Dissent and debate are the touchstones of the American experience. We are not unanimous in our philosophy of government. We never have been. Nor will we be so long as we are a free nation."

That picture of Mrs. Marina Oswald emerges from interviews with persons in close contact with her since she was widowed Nov. 24.

Her husband, Lee Harvey Oswald, was slain before he could be brought to trial as the accused assassin of the President.

Marina, 22, a native of Russia who has been in the United States less than two years, was immediately sealed off by the Secret Service.

NO REACTION

The blonde widow appeared stunned by the collapse of her quiet life in the Dallas suburb of Irving.

Now, almost three weeks later, she still has not given way to any overt emotional reaction, her advisers say. She seldom talks about her husband, but appears to feel his apparent guilt also is hers.

Her children are her life. She is described as completely devoted to the two girls—June, 2, and Rachel, 7 weeks. The family is living at an undisclosed location in the suburban Dallas area under a protective Secret Service guard.

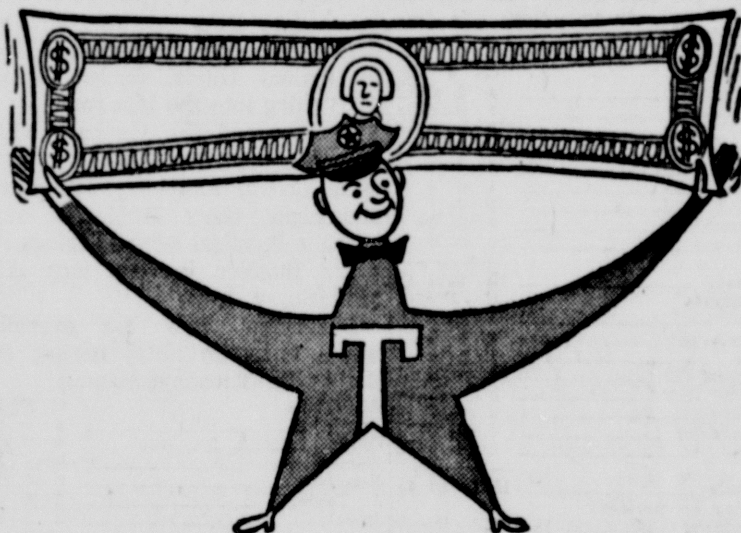

This week she was sent to Parkland Hospital — the hospital where both the President and her husband died—to get a postnatal six-week checkup. She was pronounced in excellent health.

TWO AGENTS NEAR

She is free to go anywhere, but always is accompanied by two agents. She has paid two brief visits to her husband's grave in a Fort Worth cemetery, bringing flowers each time.

She prefers to remain indoors. She spends a lot of time sewing, altering some of the clothing donated to her and the children.

She is said to be extremely eager to cast off her Russian ties, and wants to learn to read, write and speak good English. The outpouring of money and sympathy from the United States and the rest of the world has overwhelmed her. So far, she has received more than 1,000 letters, along with donations that have passed the $12,000 mark.

Three Of Four Murdered Presidents Left Loving Parents To Suffer This The Greatest Of All Personal Losses

By VIRGINIA PALMER

Written for The Associated Press

So few parents have lived to see what Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy once called "the culmination of my dreams"—a son in the White House.

Yet of the four Presidents who were assassinated, there left loving parents to suffer this greatest of all losses.

At their son's inauguration on that bitter cold, snowy January morning less than three years ago, the former ambassador and his wife sat side by side and witnessed the event as no other American parents had ever done.

(Grant's father attended the ceremony, but his shy, or indifferent, mother refused the invitation and never appeared in the public eye.)

3 SAD EVENTS

For the elder Kennedys, who appear to have all the worldly goods they could possibly desire, it is the third time they have faced the death of a vital, adult child. The President is also survived by Mrs. "Honeyfritz" Fitzgerald, his maternal grandmother, who recently celebrated her 98th birthday in Boston.

When President Lincoln was slain on Good Friday (in the same year Mrs. Fitzgerald was born) his "angel mother" grieved quietly on her farm in Goose Neck, Pa.

Before leaving for Washington five years before, President-elect Lincoln had made a sentimental journey to her home. Afterward, Sarah Lincoln told others she had a weird premonition something tragic faced him.

OUTLIVED BY 4 YEARS

The President's stepmother outlived him by four years, seven months.

Sweet-faced, quick-witted Aunt Eliza Garfield captured the imagination of the American public when she became the first mother to attend her son's inauguration.

Less than four months later, on July 2, 1861, Mrs. Garfield, "the star White House boarder," saw him off for the 25th reunion of his class at Williams College, in an especially jovial mood. Within the hour, a total stranger, Charles Guiteau, a disappointed office seeker, shot the soft-spoken President at the Washington depot.

"It's only a slight wound—be careful how you tell my mother," the mortally injured man cautioned.

DIED 80 DAYS LATER

President Garfield died 80 days later, survived by his pioneer mother, wife and family.

Like so many others, the parents of James Garfield, William McKinley and John F. Kennedy worried when their young sons donned a military uniform. All men returned home with distinguished war records only to be sacrificed for their country.

Those who knew the closeness between William McKinley and his mother felt it was a blessing she was spared knowing of his murder. A paralytic stroke had taken the former Nancy Allison during her son's term in the White House and the entire country went into a 30-day mourning period at that time.

Only one other father has outlived his President son, Dr. George T. Harding, a retired surgeon, had married three times and produced eight children, the oldest of which was the President who died of apoplexy in a San Francisco hotel in 1923. Dr. Harding lived on five years longer.

COURT DIDN'T RULE XMAS OUT OF SCHOOL

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
Associated Press Staff Writer

The U.S. Supreme Court said no compulsory prayer, but they didn't say no Christmas in the public schools.

At least that's how school officials across the country interpret what the court said, an Associated Press survey showed today.

Teachers and children were happily decorating trees, hanging wreaths, rehearsing carols, planning pageants, and even building Nativity scenes.

The only dispute in officialdom was whether the religious aspect of Christmas should or could be eliminated or played down.

All agreed that sectarianism had no place in a school Christmas celebration, but there was some doubt about what is sectarian.

Charles Spain, superintendent of schools in Albuquerque, N.M., said Nativity scenes might be construed as sectarian, but would not forbid them.

The New York State Education Department said school Christmas activities should be conducted as historical exercises and teachers should not attempt to draw religious connotations from them.

BUDDHISTS HYMN

In Colorado, some schools soft-pedaled the religious motif this year. A Denver junior high added a Buddhist hymn to the usual carols.

One Colorado principal said his school would have a holiday program rather than a Christmas program, because his school "is an educational institution, not a religious one."

In Illinois, State Superintendent of Public Instruction Ray Page called recognition of Christmas an "accepted custom" in public schools, although all programs are voluntary and pupils who ask are excused.

Add a well beaten egg, a couple of tablespoons of melted butter and a little light cream to two cups of seasoned mashed sweet potatoes; bake in a moderate oven until puffed and browned.

POSSIBILITY OF CHANGE IN U.S. CHINA POLICY

WASHINGTON (AP)—A high State Department official has suggested the possibility of future change in the long-rigid U.S. policy of isolation toward Red China provided the Chinese Communists change their attitude toward the outside world.

While warning in effect that the Johnson administration will tolerate no military adventures by China's revolutionary Communist leadership, Roger Hillsman, assistant secretary of state for Far Eastern affairs, said this country is "determined to keep the door open to the possibility of change."

Hillsman's address in San Francisco Friday to the Commonwealth Club was reported to carry White House approval. It also is understood to have been given careful consideration by top government officials.

In the present circumstances of Peking's belligerent hostility toward the United States and the West generally, the address strongly affirmed U.S. policy toward the Chinese Communists as it has been developed over a dozen years.

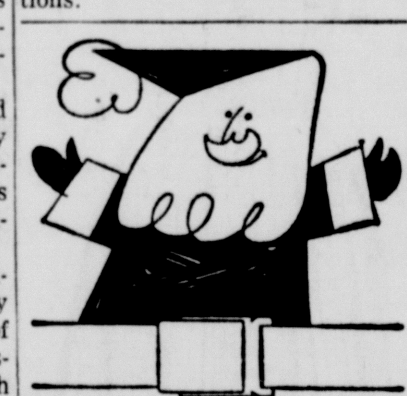

At its core, this policy involved nonrecognition of the Peking government and opposition to Red China's entry into the United Nations.

Hillsman ruled out any appeasement of Red China and reasserted a policy of firmness "which will make foreign adventure unprofitable."

HEAVY SECURITY

NEW YORK (AP)—Security arrangements for President Johnson's visit here Tuesday will be similar to those of last Sunday when about 5,000 bluecoats and detectives guarded him.

Police said Friday that detailed security plans have been drawn up for the President's visit to address the United Nations.

James MARLOW Reports

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Time was a big difference between Presidents Johnson and Truman when they suddenly had to move up from the vice presidency.

Because it was, Truman made a lot of changes fast to get ready for the long haul. Johnson, pressed for time, will probably try to make do as best he can with some of the top men he inherited from President Kennedy.

When President Roosevelt died in 1945, Truman had almost a full four-year term ahead of him. He prepared for it quickly.

MUST CAMPAIGN TOO

Within three months he had made five changes in his Cabinet. By the time he was elected to his own full term in 1948 none of the Cabinet he inherited remained.

But when Johnson succeeded Kennedy he had less than 14 months left out of his predecessor's four-year term. And that's the end for him, unless like Truman he gets elected on his own.

He will almost certainly seek such election. This means, in addition to the usual problems of the presidency, he must spend a lot of time campaigning. It will probably be to his advantage to keep the Kennedy Cabinet.

HE'LL MAKE CHANGES

Replacements would need breaking in on the job. This doesn't mean Johnson will simply rock along in the Kennedy boat. He'll make changes, although maybe not at the very top. He's too restless not to.

But highly respected men like Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Secretary of State Dean Rusk seem sure to stay.

Johnson, who has his own strong opinions about people and the way to get things done, had and used the opportunity to size up Kennedy appointments, tactics and programs abroad and at home.

CAUSES ANGUISHED CRIES

He said he backs the programs. But he will probably try to improve them and make changes in personnel below the very top level. He has to make his own record to run on in 1964. So he has to be a man in a hurry.

Some of his observations as vice president may be turning into action now.

The administration announced Thursday plans to close or reduce about 26 military bases in 14 states to economize, with thousands out of jobs. Anguished cries came from some Congress members whose states will be affected.

JFK HAD MILD APPROACH

But Congress has also said it wants some evidence of economy from the President if he hopes to get the tax cut bill through. McNamara had been working on the elimination of bases under Kennedy.

It isn't clear whether Kennedy, had he lived, would have gone through with this, or whether the tough decision was made by Johnson. Kennedy, with his mild approach to Congress, never liked to antagonize the members.

And Congress repaid him by ignoring his pleas for passage of two of his major programs: civil rights and the tax cut.

Johnson watched this. He may have decided two can play at the game of being tough for Thursday it was also announced even more bases may be shut down.

ARMISTICE FADING

This disclosure could well be taken by some members of Congress as a warning to cooperate with the President on his programs.

Meanwhile, the political armistice the Republicans declared after Kennedy's death—just for a while—seems to be starting to disappear.

Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, Thursday called for an investigation of the radio and television operations of President and Mrs. Johnson. This is getting rough.

Kennedy sought to preserve a political tranquility, even when he was getting nowhere with

QUEBEC ACES DOWN CLIPPERS IN BALTIMORE

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Quebec Aces are fast becoming the wild card in this year's American Hockey League Eastern Division scramble.

Friday night the Canadian sextet upended Baltimore 4-2, on the Clippers' home ice and tossed a five-point blanket on the division's first four clubs.

Providence's leaders have 27 points, two more than Baltimore and Hershey and five more than the oncoming Aces.

In the league's only other game, the Rochester Americans retained their Friday-13th good fortune by beating the Springfield Indians 4-2, at Rochester. The Amerks have won all six of their games on the unlucky date since joining the AHL in 1956.

3-0 LEAD

Wayne Freitag, Frank Martin and Don Blackburn gave Quebec a 3-0 lead in Baltimore before George Konik tallied for the Clippers midway through the second period.

Quebec's Leon Rochefort, a former Clipper, and Baltimore's Dave Richardson matched third period scores.

Newcomer Pete Stelmowski got the Amerks out front and Darryl Sly, moved from a defense spot to right wing, scored twice for a 3-0 margin after 40 minutes. Gerry Foley counted for the Indians in the final but a few minutes later put the Amerks out of danger. Brian Kilrea scored the Indians' second goal late in the period.

WIFE OF GRID ACE IS FOUND DEAD IN HOME

DETROIT (AP)—Blues singer, Dinah Washington was found dead in her home today.

Police said the cause of death was not immediately determined but that Miss Washington may have taken an overdose of a sedative. A bottle of unmarked pills was found beside her bed.

The death of Miss Washington, 37, came as she and her new husband, professional football star Dick (Night Train) Lane, had been preparing for a family Christmas celebration.

HOMES FROM SCHOOL

Miss Washington's two sons by former marriages, George Jenkins, 18, and Robert Grayson, 15, arrived home only Friday night.

With her husband, Miss Washington had picked up the boys at Detroit Metropolitan Airport on their arrival from Boston where they attend a preparatory school.

Lane, a star halfback of the National Football League Detroit Lions, and Miss Washington were married last July.

Because of his wife's death Lane was expected to pass up Sunday's game at Chicago between the Lions and the Chicago Bears which will help settle the NFL's Western Division championship.

FOUND UNCONSCIOUS

Lane said he and Dinah, famed night club and television star, had gone to bed after watching television in their pajamas following their arrival home with George and Robert.

The buzzing of the television set in their bedroom awakened Lane about 3:45 a.m., he said, and he found Dinah unconscious.

He called Dr. B. C. Ross. Dr. Ross later pronounced Miss Washington dead.

Police detective William J. Chubb of the homicide squad said the bottle of pills was a prescription from a West Coast druggist. Miss Washington recently returned from a West Coast tour.

CELTICS ROUT PHILADELPHIA

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A big bench and a game-busting burst. That's the time-honored formula the Boston Celtics have followed to five straight National Basketball Association championships. The formula is the same in 1963.

Friday night the champs, supposedly hobbled by injuries to Tom Heinsohn and Sam Jones, parlayed the "relief pitching" of Willie Naulls and a "big inning" into a 111-84 rout of the Philadelphia 76ers. The Celtics' victory was their 13th in the last 14 games and 20th of the young season against only two defeats.

In the only other game played the Baltimore Bullets edged the San Francisco Warriors 116-114 in overtime.

Naulls, the veteran sharpshooter acquired from San Francisco to bolster the Boston bench corps, popped in 30 points for the Celtics and led a 17-6 third-quarter spree that transformed a 55-54 tangle into a runaway.

Willie connected on five straight long one-handers during the explosion.

Rod Thorn sparked Baltimore to a come-from-behind victory over San Francisco. Thorn led the Bullets with 26 points, including five in the overtime.

Santa and the Haunted House

By LUCRECE BEALE

Synopsis: The Children were rescued by the Ice Sprites who warmed them and fed them. When the Sprites heard the children were trying to get to Santa Land, they promised to help.

CHAPTER 11 ZOOMING OVER THE MOUNTAIN

The grandfather Sprite gave orders and all the little Sprites set to work. They chopped down small trees and whittled and planed and waxed. They fashioned strips of leather and wove bark into ropes.

While they were doing this the children were putting on their clothes which had gotten dry and warm in front of the fire. Then the old Sprite said "See what we have made for you."

He gave each child a pair of skis and two poles and a pair of sturdy boots!

Jeremy's eyes nearly popped from his head. All his life he had wanted a pair of skis and these were the most beautiful he had ever imagined. He put on the boots and fastened his feet in the straps. He took a pole in each hand and dropped a loop over each wrist. He felt like a king of the mountain.

Then his face fell and he said sadly, "I can't ski."

"On these skis anybody can ski," said the Sprite. "You can even ski uphill and that's something nobody has ever done before."

He helped Sissy and Miss Jo onto their skis and he said, "Just push on the poles and away you go — up and over the mountain!"

The children pushed hard on the poles and swooped away over the snowy banks of the river, across a meadow and up the mountain side. The Ice Sprites raced behind them shouting and waving but the children went so fast that soon the Sprites were left behind.

Up, up they went until, before they knew it, they had passed right over the top of the mountain and begun to skim down the other side. They clutched their poles and bent their knees and the skis did all the rest. They did snowplows and stem turns and christies. They flew over huge hummocks of snow and landed on their feet. They traversed the mountain side and schussed straight down the last long slope, their scarves flying over their shoulders, their faces shining with happiness.

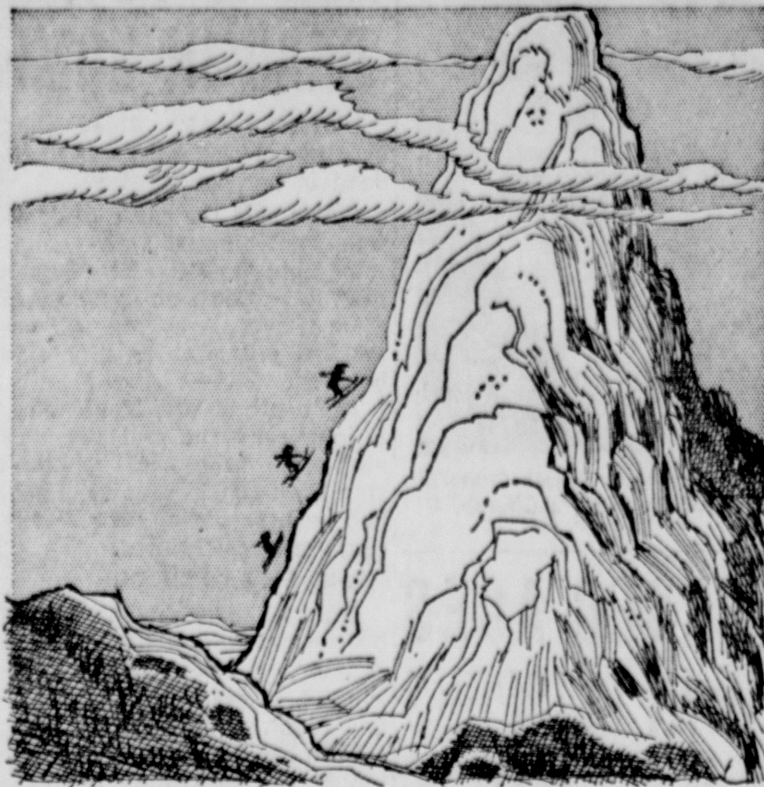

Suddenly Miss Jo wailed, "My skis don't ski any more."

"Mine don't either," cried Sissy. She pushed hard on the poles but nothing happened.

Jeremy, too, had come to a stop. They pushed and pushed on the poles but try as they would they could only slide the skis like ordinary folk on ordinary skis.

"Oh, I wish we could ride some more!" said Sissy.

"And so you shall," said a

They swooped UP the mountain side.

voice out of nowhere.

The children looked but they could not find where the voice came from. Jeremy called out, "Where are you? Who are you?"

"Coming right up!" said the voice.

A funny little gnome climbed out of a hole in the ground not 50 feet from where the children stood. On his shoulder he carried an enormous object shaped like a half a doughnut with each end tapered to a point.

"I am Manfred the Moonlighter," said the gnome as he set down his burden. "You probably have never heard of me but I've heard of you because the Ice Sprites sent me a message."

"Then — you're going to help us get to Santa Land?" asked Jeremy.

"Of course. That Nog has got to be stopped!"

Manfred rolled the enormous doughnut around and set it on its side and the children saw it wasn't a doughnut at all but an honest-to-goodness crescent moon! "Climb on," said Manfred. "This is your next ride to Santa Land."

Infant Smothers In Plastic Bag

PITTSBURGH (AP)—A Pittsburgh infant suffocated in a plastic bag in a car while his mother was taking a cart back to a supermarket, police reported.

Pronounced dead Thursday at West Penn Hospital was 6-month-old Robert Peter Christopher Felix Jr., whose father is a law professor at Duquesne University.

BOLIVIANS WON'T FREE 4 YANKEES

By THOMAS J. STONE

Associated Press Staff Writer
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP)—Communist-led tin miners began a general mobilization in their Andean mountain stronghold today, still refusing to release four Americans and other hostages after holding them for more than a week.

Bearded admirers of Cuba's Fidel Castro guarded windswept passes in the Catavi-Siglo Veinte mining area, 150 miles southeast of La Paz, with smuggled weapons of Communist make.

The miners started the military buildup after President Victor Paz Estenssoro Friday night rejected an offer from his leftist vice president, Juan Lechin, boss of the tin miners' union, to resign in exchange for the release of two Communist union leaders jailed by the government on criminal charges.

DEMAND REFUSED

Lechin said the miners were willing to free the hostages as part of the deal.

Lechin, leader of a dissident faction in Paz Estenssoro's government party, returned from Catavi Friday.

Paz Estenssoro, who has shunned a military showdown in an effort to avoid bloodshed, refused Lechin's demand for the immediate withdrawal of 3,300 government troops and police massed at Oruro, 30 miles north of the mining area. He said the troops would remain at Oruro until the captives are released.

The hostages were seized Dec. 6 after the government arrested union leaders Federico Escobar and Irineo Pimentel on charges of murder, attempted murder, anarchy and embezzlement. The miners contend they were framed.

2 New Regimes To Be Recognized

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has decided to recognize the revolt-born regimes of Honduras and the Dominican Republic in view of their declared intentions eventually to restore democratic governments to their countries.

An announcement is due today.

Informants said the Johnson administration concluded the United States has achieved about all it could expect to get from the withholding of diplomatic recognition from the two regimes.

LAUNCH SATELLITE

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union Friday launched a new earth satellite, Kosmos 23, in its 21-month-old series of launches to study space, the Soviet news agency Tass announced.

Rapid progress is being made by the Pennsylvania Highways Department to eliminate commercial signs along the burgeoning Interstate highways network. But such signs cannot be removed until legal steps can be taken by the Department proving sign ownership on the state's 1,575 miles of high-speed arteries. When the state rids the highways of signs within 660 feet of the right-of-way pavement, a federal bonus will be provided.

Backers Say Scranton Coming To View 1964 Race As Call Of Duty

By RICHARD L. GRAVES

HARRISBURG (AP)—Those close to Gov. Scranton detect a change in his mood regarding the Republican presidential nomination.

It is the troubled mood of a man who must come to a major decision soon. Unquestionably, any such mood has been precipitated by the tragic events in Dallas, Nov. 22.

Previously the governor denied he was seeking the nomination at the GOP convention in San Francisco next year, but he never put himself totally off the presidential stage. He remained in the wings with a few other prospects.

DEADLINE NEAR

But that was before Dallas. Whether Scranton's attitude on the presidential nomination would have changed anyway is immaterial. The current of political events has been sharply, shockingly and irreversibly altered.

The probable deadline for the governor's personal decision—if he is making one—would be Dec. 23. That's the day a 30-day period of mourning for the late President John F. Kennedy ends. With it ends Scranton's self-imposed moratorium on national political discussion.

In the meantime, national Republican attention has focused on Scranton as never before. The reason, partially, is that previously leading prospects for the GOP nomination have become eclipsed through a variety of unconnected events.

OTHERS' LIABILITIES

The people around Scranton (who want to find their Christmas stockings stuffed with "I will run" statements) are quick to tick off the political liabilities of other major names mentioned. Their consensus:

Arizona's Sen. Barry Goldwater, an unannounced candidate for the nomination, has been eclipsed politically by President Johnson, i.e., Goldwater's conservative — southern base of support has been neutralized. Scranton boosters now hold the opinion Goldwater will never formally seek the GOP nomination.

New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is in political eclipse because of his remarriage. The Scranton people say Rockefeller's version of politics is probably closer to Scranton's than others mentioned, but that political realities now are against him.

NIXON IN ECLIPSE

—Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon has been eclipsed by two major election defeats. In the eyes of the Scranton people he wears a label: loser.

—Henry Cabot Lodge, U.S. ambassador to Viet Nam: eclipsed, say the Scranton people, by 8,000 long miles and almost non-existent interest from organization men.

And what favorite son shines forth from behind all of these eclipses?

DECISION IS HIS

Scranton boosters say that even if he were a behind-the-scenes active candidate—they contend he is not, now—they would do everything the same as they are now with a couple of minor modifications.

One modification would be to book Scranton for more out-of-state appearances. He has only one scheduled now, a GOP rally in Indianapolis which will be nationally televised on a closed circuit.

The other major modification would be enlistment of support from influential Republican political leaders, notably such names as Leonard Hall, former national GOP chairman, and Thomas E. Dewey, twice Republican candidate for president and a New York state political power.

MAY SEE DUTY

But Scranton himself is the only final arbiter in the matter. As discussed in a previous column, the small, but potent, word "duty" will figure very largely in Scranton's ultimate decision.

He told a news conference before that he did not conceive it to be his duty to seek the GOP nomination.

But at that time those close to him said that he has a strong personal concept of duty.

The consensus now seems to be that Scranton reluctantly — or perhaps not so reluctantly, depending on your political persuasion—is coming to view it as his duty to run.

This process of determining one's duty seems to be a process of evolution. It takes time. Cynics counter that the determination of political duty is a matter of timing. Take your choice.

TWO ARMEN LOST AT SEA

WESTHAMPTON BEACH, N.Y. (AP)—A native Pennsylvanian was one of the two crewmen who apparently died Friday in the crash of an F101B Air Force jet in the Atlantic Ocean.

He was identified as Capt. Roger A. Dorwart, 31, a native of Philadelphia and son of Mrs. Virginia Dorwart of Upper Darby, Pa.

Dorwart, who piloted the plane, joined the Air Force in 1954 after his graduation from Franklin and Marshall College at Lancaster, Pa.; he was stationed at the Suffolk County Air Force Base here since last June. He was married and the father of four children.

His plane, which had taken off from the Suffolk base, plunged into the Atlantic Ocean south of Nantucket, Mass.

The other crewman, a jet aircraft navigator and radar officer, was Capt. Walter W. Adkins, 33, a native of Huntingdon, W.Va., also stationed at Suffolk.

HEAVY SNOWS, LOW READINGS GRIP MIDWEST

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Snow and cold, packing the punch of a midwinter storm, held an icy grip on wide areas from the Northern Plains into the Midwest Friday.

Unseasonable low temperatures were reported across much of the eastern two-thirds of the nation.

Heaviest snow and the coldest air covered much of Montana, the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Wyoming, Kansas and Iowa. Temperatures dropped to as low as 17 below zero in Lewistown, Mont., and in Butte, hit by nearly a foot of snow, it was -12.

Below-zero readings were general in other parts of the snow belt. Snow depths ranged up to 15 inches in parts of Montana and ranged from 6 to 12 inches in most other areas as well as in the Great Lakes region and parts of the Northeast.

16 DEATHS
The stormy-cold weather was blamed for at least 16 deaths on snow-covered highways.

Snow diminished in many areas and winds tapered off during the night. However, Weather Bureau forecasters said no immediate general break in the cold weather appeared likely. The cold air headed eastward and lower temperatures were forecast in many areas, including the Southeast. Central Texas had temperatures in the lower 40s and upper 30s.

Rain fell across broad sections in the south central and southeast parts of the country, extending from southern Texas eastward to the Atlantic Coast. Generally fair weather prevailed in the far southwest and the Pacific Coast states with temperatures near seasonal levels.

Comic Carl Reiner:

Finds Writing Van Dyke Show His Dish

Carl Reiner, comedian who turned creator-writer of the award-winning "Dick Van Dyke Show" (Wednesday, CBS), clowns with one of the regulars, comic Morey Amsterdam. Carl, second banana to Sid Caesar for four memorable years, has also written successful movies and a novel.

By RUTH E THOMPSON

Dick Van Dyke and Carl Reiner have two of the most expressive stop-motion pairs of eyeballs in television comedy. But they have even more in common than that because as you probably know Rob Petrie portrayed by Dick on the CBS "Dick Van Dyke" Show is not only written by Carl Reiner; it was originally based on a period in his life.

What made Carl, so good a comedian that he walked off with two Emmys as a performer, turn to writing (which incidentally won him two more Emmys as the Van Dyke Show writer and set Dick up for some award winning too)?

I'd heard Carl had written the role for himself but he got up and paced around the room, a much slimmer, younger-looking man than my home screen had indicated. "Do you realize that at the outset of a series it's a full-time job just writing . . . and until just recently I've written all the scripts myself?" He has been coaxed into writing himself in for a minor part now and then but that's the most he could handle he says. Besides, he has some big plans for himself, not to mention one small side satisfaction.

"Unlike actors, writers don't have to wear toupees, you know. Not that I mind putting one on if I have to, since everybody's in on the secret. But — they're warm."

"Now don't you think Dick is just about the best young comedian around?" he asked in a tone that left no doubt where he stands. It's a great cast all through, though. Morey (Amsterdam), Mary Tyler Moore and of course Rose Marie. And Dick's timing, just great, but you know, perfection is a thing with him. He's one of the neatest men alive.

"Albums? Well Mel Brooks is dropping by in a few minutes. If you don't have to rush, stay and meet him. But no, we have no new album plans right now. Mel difficult? It hurts me to hear people say that. They don't understand him. Mel is Mel, a really great guy, a genius I feel. Now if Mel only had my organization, he'd be another Oscar Wilde."

WALK TO THEATER

Like a lot of other ex-New York show folk, Carl comes to town at intervals to catch up with live theater. Was he staying at the Wood-paneled Algonquin (home of the literary round table of a generation ago) because he's now more writer than performer?

"No, I want to be near Broadway. My wife and I put up at a hotel on the Park once during a crippling snowstorm. Couldn't get a taxi. Now we stay in the heart of things where we can get to the theaters on foot."

He was hushed with admiration for the writing of "The Rehearsal" which he'd seen the night before. "What handling of a play within a play, oh boy!"

DURABLE HIT

And another few footsteps away was the play I'd seen the night before, "Enter Laughing" one of the most durable hits on Broadway, based on a novel by Carl Reiner's early years as a light-hearted machinist's helper sneaking off to acting classes at night.

"Did I start my writing on the Sid Caesar Show? Well yes and no. That worked mostly on a conference basis, you know. We all pitched in, but nobody as much as Sid himself. But I really started writing in 1956. I'd been watching a story on television that was just awful. Surely I can do better than that I told myself. We were vacationing on Fire Island at that moment so I put a portable typewriter on my lap and got busy. By 2 a.m. I'd finished a short story."

"I was so excited I rushed upstairs to wake up my wife. 'Do you think I really have it?' I asked her. She's a much better critic than I am." His Estelle began reading immediately, gave her verdict. "You've got it." Then he wrote another then expanded the characters and locale of his teen years in the Bronx to novel-length. "I really feel like a writer now," he says, "I love the discipline but being a performer too, I acknowledge, makes re-writes on the set go fast for me."

REVERSES USUAL ORDER

It's news when: Man bites dog or when a television program becomes the basis for a book instead of vice versa. But that is what has happened with NBC's Project 20 program "The Coming of Christ"

First presented during the Christmas season of 1960 the program used as visual material over 300 paintings of the late Middle Ages and the Renaissance.

The book, which has been published by Look magazine shows 144 of the pictures used on the program.

The program itself, incidentally,
will be repeated by NBC December 22 at 7 p.m.

SLEZAK AS COMPOSER

Walter Slezak is said to bring an extra measure of understanding to his portrayal of George Frederick Handel in the Hall of Fame telecast about the birth of the oratorio "The Messiah."

Though he himself early turned to acting his early indoctrination to the arts was the behind - the - scenes - view of the world of music because his father, a well known singer of Wagnerian opera, took his family along on his tours.

The teleplay, called "A Cry of Angels," was written by Sherman Yellen and costars Maureen O'Hara. It is scheduled for 4 p.m., Sunday, December 15
(NBC).

Finds Writing

former? "Like everybody in show business, I'm in because I wanted it more than anything. We all love it." After acting lessons he got a role in an unsuccessful attempt at jazzing up "The Merry Widow." Then along came a hiatus caused by World War II where the Army after having him taught French, assigned him to the non-French speaking Hawaiian Islands. But somewhere along the line he was transferred to Maurice Evans' theatrical unit. His sergeant, by the way, was Howard Morris, later to be his and Sid's sidekick on the Caesar Show. In between came several appearances on Broadway.

He kept talking and I realized a strange and nice quality. For a man of his acknowledged wit he seemed to have a good word for almost everybody he mentioned.

Critics: "I think they should educate as well as teach, like Walter Kerr."

GABOR SISTERS

The Gabor Sisters: "You know they really are lovely girls as well as beautiful. Eva is proud of being a good housekeeper and Zsa Zsa once explained why she was tired when we were waiting to go on the Jack Paar program. Seems she'd been late sewing name tapes on her daughter's camp clothes because "That's what a mother's for, dahrleeng."

Hollywood, "Sure I like living there, not only because if you're a fur trapper you go where the fur is, but I find it stimulating, say, to talk to top producers at a party. Don't kid yourself. They're smart. They're successes only because they have what it takes.

"What am I planning to do? Now that we have good Van Dyke Show writers I'll move toward head writer status so I can write movies (he's already done two) and produce."

Move over, movie moguls. There's a new boy in town. As you've probably already recognized, that successful writer, showman Carl Reiner has what it takes.

ROSE PARADE FIGURES

The forthcoming New Year's Day Tournament of Roses parade will be the 75th.

There will be, according to estimates garnered by NBC (which will colorcast the pageant from 11:30 a.m. to 1:45), 60 flower-covered floats.

There will also be 225 highly ornamented horses ridden by 225 highly ornamented riders.

PLAN NEW SHOWS

A comedy panel starring Alan King and a situation comedy, "The Jones Boys," are being planned by CBS for the 1964-65 season. Nat Hiken, creator of Bilko has also been signed for the King show.

The network has also completed arrangements for an hour-long dramatic series to star Harry Guardino as a newspaperman.

All three go into production shortly.

BENEFACITOR

Leslie Uggams, now in the top ranks of young songstresses, started her career as a result of winning a musical quiz. She donated all her earnings, incidentally, to a school in Texas.

VOCALIZES

Hilda Simms (seen frequently as Verna Ayres on "The Nurses," has joined the ranks of nonsinging actors starring in musicals when she appeared in the recent Broadway production of "Tambores For Glory."

INDUSTRY AND LABOR TAKE OPPOSING VIEW

HARRISBURG (AP) — Labor and industry took opposing sides Thursday in the second day of hearings on the Scranton administration's proposed unemployment compensation reforms.

Russell H. Hubbard Jr., an official of the General Electric Co., urged speedy enactment of the reforms to "strengthen and improve the existing law."

Representatives of the Pennsylvania AFL-CIO, United Steelworkers and the United Mine Workers called on the legislature to reject the proposals.

RESUME MONDAY

The hearings, being conducted by a special legislative task force, resume Monday at which time more industry witnesses are expected to testify.

Basically, the Scranton program would raise revenues to the state unemployment compensation fund an estimated $35 million a year and reduce the payments by the same amount, providing a $70 million a year increase in the fund.

Changes in benefits would el-minate one year of eligibility unless a claimant had intervening employment; curtail post-pregnancy claims by requiring two weeks of employment; limit benefits to seasonal workers to the periods in which they ordinarily are employed; and cut benefits to 50 per cent of base wages.

The task force is collecting testimony in an effort to draw up legislation that could be presented to the legislature in a special session early next year.

Hubbard said General Electric was in favor of the proposed legislation because it "would help laid-off employees as well as all segments of the economy including the business community in which they live."

Harry Boyer, president of the state AFL-CIO which represents 1.25 million workers, said the proposals were based on "vicious and unsound" myths.

"I want to state as categorically and as clearly as I know how that this is a bad program," he said. "It is so bad that it affords no opportunity for compromise."

Bernard Greenberg, director of insurance, pensions and unemployment benefits for the USW, called the administration proposals "backward, irresponsible and dangerous."

Others opposing the administration proposals were Lester

Angry Soldier Fined By Police

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP)—When police found Army Sgt. Robert Johnson, he was asleep in his car parked in the middle of a street with the motor running.

Johnson, 31, was transferred to a police cruiser and en route to the station, he awoke angrily.

"Somebody's stealing my car," he cried.

Judge Allan Asher found Johnson guilty Thursday of drunkenness and fined him $50.

Russian Family To Visit Ohio

PORTSMOUTH, Ohio (AP) — A four-member Russian family will spend Christmas at Portsmouth in a Junior Chamber of Commerce project to promote better understanding between the Soviet and American peoples.

The family will arrive Dec. 19 and will spend about a week in a private home.

Woody also offers a cynical observation on rich relatives. They are he says "usually distant relatives or close relatives and you don't win either way."

Acquit Driver Of Migrant Bus

SALINAS, Calif. (AP)—Francisco G. Espinosa, 34, the driver of a farm labor bus involved in California's worst vehicle accident, was acquitted of 32 counts of misdemeanor manslaughter Thursday in Monterey County Superior Court.

Defense attorney Robert Ames argued that Espinosa did not see or hear the train which struck his bus near Chualar last Sept. 17, killing 32 Mexican laborer passengers.

Ames said Espinosa's peripheral vision was poor and that his view of the oncoming train was obscured by an overcast sky and a row of utility poles.
